

ROOF & GUTTER CARE

How often should gutters be cleaned?

Once a year — twice with trees or moss

Book late autumn, once the leaves are down and before winter. That's when a blockage does the most damage: trapped water freezes, expands and splits the run.

! When you need it twice a year

- Overhanging trees — conifers shed all year round
- A mossy roof — the UK's biggest cause of blockages
- Low pitch or valleys — debris doesn't self-clear
- Coastal or exposed — more salt, grit and debris
- Cast iron guttering — deeper joints compact harder

✓ What to watch between cleans

- Overflow over the front edge in heavy rain
- Green or brown staining down the wall
- A wet patch at the foot of a downpipe
- Plants growing out of the gutter
- A run that sags in the middle
- New builds: grit and mortar from the build
